

Ruias in refinery talks with Aramco, NIOC

Mumbai/Tehran/Kuwait, Feb 3

THE Essar Group, controlled by India's billionaire Ruiabrothers, has held preliminary discussions with the national oil companies of Saudi Arabia and Iran about selling a stake in its refinery business, people with knowledge of the matter said.

Exploratory talks began last month between Saudi Arabian Oil Co and the Indian conglomerate about a stake in Essar Oil, which has a market value of about $5.5 billion, according to the people. Essar Group officials discussed a potential deal during a meeting with Aramco executives at the World Economic Forum in Davos, three of the people said, asking not to be identified as the information is private.

National Iranian Oil Co also met the Essar Group recently about a possible purchase of a stake in Essar Oil, according to three people. The talks, which touched on a refinery deal as well as a potential increase in purchases of Iranian crude by the private Indian refiner, took place two to three weeks ago in Iran, one of the people said.

The Essar Group is selling assets after earnings were hurt by a fall in commodity prices, weak demand and lower capacity usage at its businesses. Saudi Aramco, the world's biggest oil producer, is moving beyond producing and exporting crude and expanding into the processing and sale of oil products, which can fetch higher prices on world markets.

Shashi and Ravi Ruia, who founded the Essar Group, plan to pay off some of the conglomerate's loans with the proceeds from selling the refinery unit stake, the people said. The Essar Group had been seeking about $3 billion from a sale of a 49% stake in the unit to Rosneft, the people said. Rosneft signed a non-binding agreement in July to buy 49% of Essar Oil, conditional on due diligence and negotiations on price. The Essar Group entered talks with Aramco in order to have an alternative buyer in case talks with Rosneft fall through. Bloomberg
